

ACHIEVEMENTS UNLOCKED WITH CONTINUOUS FEEDBACK

A software and IT development team of a world-renowned facilities services provider was facing issues with their employee recognition and coaching. While they were already using Jira for their project management, a different siloed platform was being used for the recognition and coaching aspects - Which had lower adoption rates than what the organisation was aiming for.

TACKLING THE PROBLEM HEAD-ON

The partner organisation did its own homework and started the evaluation of UpRaise for Employee Success. The evaluation period went smoothly, and the UpRaise team were not contacted for any kind of support. After partnering with UpRaise, they addressed a few issues they weren't able to handle efficiently yet.

FINDING THE BEST WAY OUT

Continuous feedback is one of the key differentiators between other OKR tools on the Atlassian marketplace & UpRaise for Employee Success. This functionality in the app offers organisations the ability to collect & request contextual feedback. This feedback can be of various types - ranging from Jira issues to OKRs, and even independent work. This feature impressed the partner organisation, which immediately green-lit adoption. The number of users of the app has been consistently increasing since, indicating a healthy understanding and utilisation.

LEARNINGS ON THE ROAD

By linking feedback to Jira tasks or OKRs, organisation can offer invaluable context to everyone involved. UpRaise for Employee Success provides the option so that teams can focus on the task at hand instead of trying to understand the framework.